KEWASKUM, WI – April 28th, 2022 – Wisconsin-based manufacturer Heavy Duty Ramps will be exhibiting at the 2022 National Portable Container Storage Association (NPSA) show in Denver, CO, from April 30th to May 2nd. Heavy Duty Ramps manufactures lightweight aluminum industrial loading and container ramps, as well as material handling ramp solutions in their Kewaskum, WI, facility. All of their aluminum ramps are proudly made in the USA.

At the NPSA Show, attendees can learn about Heavy Duty Ramps' aluminum manufacturing process with the opportunity to view and handle their high-traction grit-coat and proprietary punch plate ramp surfaces. Additionally, they will showcase their loading/unloading ramp solutions which include container ramps for forklifts and pallet jacks, and curb ramps for hand truck use.

Heavy Duty Ramps' specialized aluminum manufacturing process results in products that are lighter with the same or more strength capability than other industry steel products. Newly introduced this year, they will showcase aluminum container ramps with an improved truss design capable of supporting up to 12,000 lbs., as well as a rubber wedge container ramp option, and curb ramps featuring their standard and heavy-duty punch-plate surface traction.
